The Monterey Peninsula Communities

Monterey

Today, Monterey is a city of old adobe houses, white and blue boats in the harbor, a brightly colored fisherman's wharf and modern lifestyles of the 21st century. Monterey has a lot to offer the visitor and the permanent resident.

In Monterey, the old houses are connected in a "Path of History." Many of the houses are open to the public. Among them is the Custom House where the United States flag was first raised by Commodore John Drake Sloat in July 1846.

Colton Hall played an even greater role in the history of California. In 1849, it housed the Constitutional Convention when California, as the first Pacific coast state, was admitted to the Union and where the California constitution was written. Monterey has beautiful gardens that are in blossom year round. By Colton Hall is "Friendly Plaza" and right below is a little memory garden. The Stevenson House and the California First Theater, both state monuments, also have gardens around them.

Best loved is "Memory Garden" in the patio of the Pacific Building, where every year in June Monterey residents celebrate the Merienda, a birthday party for the city. People who have read John Steinbeck's "Cannery Row" and "Sweet Thursday" can follow many of the stories in Monterey's Cannery Row. The canneries are closed now, but the spirit of the old times lingers. Today it is a popular tourist area that includes: the famous Monterey Bay Aquarium, galleries, shops, wine tasting rooms, a factory outlet center, specialty stores, restaurants, hotels and inns.

Fisherman's Wharf is a picturesque spot for tourists and artists. It is the colorful home base for both fishing and pleasure boats. The wharf is lined with souvenir shops and excellent restaurants featuring seafood. It's quite a sensation to enjoy a seafood plate while a live sea otter stares at you from the bay. Commercial boats provide deep-sea fishing and excursions along the coast. The list of interesting places in Monterey is long and exciting. Try to see them all while stationed here. A good starting point is the Custom House at the foot of Wharf #1, the place where California began.

Seaside

Situated on rolling hills with an elevation from 4 to 400 feet, Seaside is known as the 'sunny spot' on the Peninsula, and, due to its hilly and unforested terrain, offers striking views of Monterey Bay and the Peninsula skyline.

It is the most populous city in the bay area, and has two lakes within its limits at Canyon del Rey Boulevard and Hilby Avenue; Laguna Grande Regional Park is a 60-acre restored wetlands area with a beautiful 12-acre lake. The park offers a one-mile bicycle path that circles the lake, a multi-purpose athletic field, volleyball courts, public restrooms, a playground and picnic area, nature trail, and a bird watching area.

Seaside's City Hall was designed by Edward Durrell Stone, a world famous architect.

Pacific Grove

The city is probably best known for the thousands of monarch butterflies that migrate here each winter, giving the town its unofficial title, "Butterfly Town, U.S.A." Each year the butterflies migrate from Canada and the state of Washington to a favorite grove of trees in Pacific Grove. They arrive in late October and leave in March.

California Methodists, who established a conference center there, founded Pacific Grove in 1875. It is a residential, incorporated community with a population of about 16,000.

It is home to a large number of beautiful Victorian homes, most dating to the town's era as a Methodist retreat in the 1880s. A stroll through neighborhoods in the downtown area reveals early homes displaying plaques engraved with the names of original owners and construction dates.

Pacific Grove's municipal flower beds along the water's edge are world famous and great favorites for photographers.

The Museum of Natural History has unusual and interesting exhibits of butterflies, marine and bird life, plants, shells, Indian artifacts and historical presentations. Scientists from all over the world come to study the marine life on the Pacific Grove beaches. The Hopkins Marine Laboratories of Stanford University are there, as is the Hopkins Marine Life Refuge, a two-mile stretch of beach extending outward to a depth of 60 feet.

Marina

Incorporated in 1975, Marina is the youngest of the Monterey Peninsula's cities. Situated in a coastal area with gently rolling hills, it is home to a unique state beach and beautiful parks and recreational facilities.

Marina Dunes State Beach is known for having one of the best hang gliding schools in the United States. The Marina Hang Gliding Championships are held every year, and pilots from all around California vie for top honors in the three-day event.

The beach also offers a breathtaking view of the Monterey Bay. It is ideal for picnicking, hiking, fishing and sunbathing. Bordering on both Marina and Seaside, and located on the former Fort Ord, is the newly opened California State University at Monterey Bay-the newest university in the California state system.

Salinas

Early settlers built the "Halfway House" beside the stage road from San Juan Bautista and Monterey in 1856. It was a resting place for travelers in need of shelter and supplies. This became the beginning of the city of Salinas.

The community grew and prospered. In 1974, the city was incorporated as a Charter City. The name, Salinas, meaning salt marshes, was derived from that of the nearby river. Salinas' crossroads location has assured its role as the commercial and agricultural center of the three-county area. Economically, agriculture is the prime mover in Salinas.

The geography of the area has been the principal influence on the economic development of the city, sustained by the agricultural production of the rich valley farm lands and bolstered by excellent grazing land in the foothills of the mountain ranges on each side of the valley.

Salinas is the county seat for Monterey County, and is known as the "Salad Bowl of the Nation." The fertile Salinas Valley produces such enormous quantities of fruits and vegetables annually that it has earned its title.

The celebrated American novelist, John Steinbeck, who won the 1940 Pulitzer Prize for the “Grapes of Wrath” and was the 1963 Nobel Prize recipient for Literature, was born in Salinas. Much of his inspiration came from his youth spent in Salinas and on the Monterey Peninsula.

Salinas is also the home of the California Rodeo, the state championships, which takes place each July.

Carmel

With its winding, tree-lined streets, over 50 inns, 60 restaurants and hundreds of unique boutiques and shops, Carmel is often likened to a quaint European village. Carmel lies on the oak and pine covered sand dunes of Carmel Bay. Its perfect white sand beach is edged by the picturesque cypress trees for which it is world famous.

Carmel’s beautiful beach is open to visitors and residents alike. Although treacherous tides make swimming dangerous, the beach is incomparable for sunbathing and picnicking. The city is known for its charming shops, most of which are small and specialize in one type of merchandise. You can find candles and brassware as well as imported foods and golfing apparel. Within the business district are many secluded shopping courts of great charm and character. There is a large community of artists and craftsmen living and working in Carmel. Many of their works can be seen in the art galleries and studios of the city.

The community supports many excellent musical events, including concerts by a local symphony orchestra and the annual Carmel Bach Festival held in July at the Sunset Center. Outdoor music, dance, and theatrical performances are held at Forest Theater, and there is an annual series of dance programs at the Sunset Center. Excellent restaurants serve a variety of food, including French haute cuisine and Oriental fare.

The Carmel Mission Basilica and Museum, located on Rio Road off of Highway 1, was the second of California’s historical missions. Built in 1771, it is today one of two basilicas on the West Coast.

Pebble Beach

Pebble Beach is synonymous with “golf” and spectacular golf courses. The golf at the many courses is world-class, star-studded, just-this-side-of-heaven golf.

The most famous of the courses, the Pebble Beach Golf Links, is owned by the Pebble Beach Company and is host to the famous AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am (once known as the Bing Crosby Pro-Am). This tournament is held annually at the end of January or beginning of February. It pairs the best from the Professional Golf Association Tour with the brightest celebrities, playing three of the world’s most spectacular golf courses.

One of California’s most familiar and most photographed landmarks is to be found on a rock jutting into the Pacific Ocean—The Lone Cypress. It is the copyrighted symbol of the Pebble Beach Company. The remarkable old cypress is silhouetted against the Pacific as it clings to a seemingly bare rock. The Lone Cypress has inspired artists and sightseers alike for decades.

Entry to 17-Mile Drive, one of the best-known scenic roadways in the world, is from Pacific Grove or from the gate at Highway 1. It leads through one of the most beautiful coastal areas of California.

The scenery changes from low, white sand dunes to forests of Monterey cypress trees, all gnarled and twisted and covered with moss.

Sightings include the bird rocks and seal rocks from the road, and, occasionally, spouting whales. The land along the 17-Mile Drive, known locally as the Del Monte Forest, contains some of the most beautiful homes on the Peninsula.

Park Rangers at the entry gates can provide maps and information. Pebble Beach is privately owned and there is a charge for entry.

Big Sur/ Point Lobos

Two miles south of the mouth of Carmel Valley, you'll see the Carmelite Monastery with its spires and red-topped roofs. On the other side of the road is Monastery Bay, once a Japanese abalone fishing spot.

Another mile or so is Point Lobos State Preserve, with its famous reserve, is one of California's most beautiful and interesting spots. You'll see wind bent trees and brown pelicans. This dramatic headland rising above the sea is a favorite with artists and photographers.

As a state park, Point Lobos is unique—it does not have the usual overnight camping facilities, and no fires are allowed. The park is an outdoor museum. It has the last stand of primitive Monterey cypress, which some people say were brought centuries ago from Japan and planted here by Buddhist monks.

Further to the south, the road flanks Los Padres National Forest, a vast recreation area, followed by Nottley's Landing. Once a thriving shipping port and village, it was famous for tanbark, smuggling and rum running.

On the Big Sur River, 34 miles from Monterey, is the Pfeiffer Redwoods State Park, a 740-acre redwood grove containing giant trees up to 1,000 years of age and more than 240 feet high. The park abounds with wildlife, even Russian wild boar and the American condor. The park contains some of the most rugged and least-explored mountains in America. It also contains the only natural forest beach in California where some sightings of rare southern sea otters are possible.

Thirty-seven miles south of Monterey is scenic Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park, which has camping facilities and picnic grounds, a restaurant, cabins and a lodge. There are also accommodations adjacent to the park. During the tourist season (June through Labor Day) accommodations are sometimes difficult to find unless advance reservations are made.

The Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center (DLIFLC) and The Presidio of Monterey

History of the Presidio of Monterey and the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center

The Original Presidio of Monterey

The military has played a vital role on the Monterey Peninsula since the area was “discovered” and claimed for Spain by Sebastian Vizcaino in 1602. Vizcaino named the Bay Monterey, in honor of his benefactor, Gaspar de Zuniga y Acevedo, Conde de (count of) Monterrey, then viceroy of New Spain (Mexico).

The Monterey Bay area was colonized by a small Spanish expedition that reached Monterey Bay in May 1770. Captain Don Gaspar de Portola commanded the military component of this expedition, and Franciscan Father Junipero Serra was in charge of the religious element. Portola officially took possession of Alta (Upper) California for Spain, and Serra celebrated a thanksgiving mass, on June 3, 1770. Portola established a presidio (fort) and mission at the southern end of Monterey Bay the same day, in accordance with his orders to “erect a fort to occupy and defend the port from attacks by the Russians, who are about to invade us.” Portola’s actions were spurred by the Spanish fear that other nations, particularly Russia had designs upon her New World Empire. Spain moved to occupy that portion of the western American coast that she had previously neglected. The Monterey presidio was one of four presidios and 21 missions established by Spain in California.

The original Presidio consisted of a square of adobe buildings located near Lake El Estero in the vicinity of what is now downtown Monterey. The fort’s original mission, the Royal Presidio Chapel, has remained in constant use since Serra established it in 1770. The original Presidio was protected by a small fort with 11 cannons, called El Castillo, built in 1792 on land now belonging to the present Presidio of Monterey.

The original Presidio fell into disrepair, as Mexican rule replaced that of Spain in California in 1822.

Fort Mervine

Commodore John Drake Sloat, commanding the U.S. Pacific Squadron, seized Monterey in July 1846, during the Mexican War. He landed unopposed with a small force in Monterey and claimed the territory and the Presidio for the United States. He left a small garrison of Marines and seamen who began improving defenses, near the former El Castillo, to better protect the town and the harbor. The new defenses were named Fort Mervine in honor of Captain William Mervine, who commanded one of the ships in Sloat’s squadron.

Company F, 3rd Artillery Regiment arrived in Monterey in January 1847, and the U.S. Army then assumed from the Navy responsibility for the continuing construction of Fort Mervine. Two of the artillery lieutenants, William Tecumseh Sherman and E.O.C. Ord, plus Engineer Lieutenant Henry W. Halleck, were destined to become prominent generals during the Civil War.

During its early history, this fortification seemed to have many names, including Fort Halleck, Fort Savannah, and the Monterey Redoubt. In 1852, the Monterey Redoubt was renamed the Monterey Ordnance Depot and used until 1856 as a military storehouse. From 1856 to the closing months of the Civil War, the fort, then called Ord Barracks, was abandoned. It was manned again in 1865, and abandoned a second time in 1866, although the

Defense Language Institute

U.S. Government “reserved” for possible future use a 140-acre military reservation surrounding the redoubt.

The Modern Presidio of Monterey

Near the end of the Philippine Insurrection in 1902, the Army recognized it needed additional forts, particularly on the West Coast. As possible sites were being surveyed, the Army “discovered” that it already owned a large area in Monterey that would be suitable for a military post. In July 1902, the Army announced plans to build a cantonment area and station one infantry regiment at Monterey. The 15th Infantry Regiment, which had fought in China and the Philippines, arrived in Monterey in September 1902 and began building the cantonment area. The 1st Squadron, 9th Cavalry, “Buffalo Soldiers,” arrived shortly thereafter.

In 1902, the name of the cantonment area was the Monterey Military Reservation. It was changed to Ord Barracks on July 13, 1903, and to the Presidio of Monterey (POM) on Aug. 30, 1904. Various infantry regiments rotated to the Presidio of Monterey, including the 15th Infantry (1902-1906), 20th Infantry (1906-1909), and 12th Infantry (1909-1917), frequently with supporting cavalry and artillery elements. The Army School of Musketry, the forerunner of the Infantry School, operated at the Presidio of Monterey from 1907 to 1913. In 1917, the U.S. War Department purchased a nearby parcel of 15,609.5 acres of land, called the Gigling Reservation, to use as training areas for Presidio of Monterey troops. This post, supplemented by additional acreage, was renamed Fort Ord on Aug. 15, 1940.

The 11th Cavalry Regiment was posted at the Presidio from 1919 to 1940, and the 2nd Battalion, 76th Field Artillery Regiment, from 1922 to 1940. During the summer months, Presidio soldiers organized and led Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC), Citizens’ Military Training Corps (CMTC), and Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) camps in the local area.

In 1940, the Presidio became the temporary headquarters of the III Corps, and served as a reception center until 1944. Declared inactive in late 1944, the Presidio was reopened in 1945 and served as a Civil Affairs Staging and Holding Area (CASA) for civil affairs soldiers preparing for the occupation of Japan.

The Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center

Military Intelligence Service Language School

On Nov. 1, 1941, the Army established the Fourth U.S. Army Intelligence School at the Presidio of San Francisco to teach the Japanese language to Japanese-American (Nisei) soldiers to use in a possible conflict with Japan. War broke out in December 1941, and in 1942 the school was relocated to Minnesota and renamed the Military Intelligence Service Language School (MISLS). Almost all of the 6,000 wartime graduates of the MISLS were trained in Japanese.

Army Language School

In 1946, after World War II, the MISLS was moved to the Presidio of Monterey. It added Russian, Chinese, Korean, Arabic, and six other languages to its curriculum, and was renamed the Army Language School (ALS) in 1947. The size of the faculty and student classes, and number of languages taught, increased throughout the Cold War years of the 1950s and later.

Defense Language Institute

Different service language schools were combined in 1963, when the ALS was redesignated the Defense Language Institute, West Coast Branch (DLIWC), with its headquarters in Washington, D.C. The Navy school became the Defense Language Institute East Coast Branch. The Air Force programs were phased out by 1970. The U.S. Air Force English Language School for foreign military personnel at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, became the Defense Language Institute English Language Center.

During the Vietnam conflict the need for Vietnamese language training was so great that a special branch, the Defense Language Institute Southwest Branch, was established at Biggs Air Force Base near El Paso, Texas. This branch was phased out in 1973, but not before DLI had exposed more than 20,000 service members to the Vietnamese language.

In 1974, the DLI headquarters moved to the Presidio of Monterey. After all service language training was consolidated, the DLI was renamed the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center (DLIFLC) in 1976.

DLIFLC was granted academic accreditation in 1978 and expanded in the 1980s. Instructor-to-student ratios increased, and with the introduction of advanced teaching techniques and information-age technology, average student language proficiency steadily increased.

For many years, DLIFLC was a tenant activity on the Presidio of Monterey, and the Presidio was a sub-installation of the nearby Fort Ord. Fort Ord closed in 1994, and the Presidio of Monterey again became a separate installation, the DLIFLC and POM.

The DLIFLC continues to evolve and expand its language course offerings in the wake of the end of the Cold War and to support the Global War on Terrorism. Currently training over 3,000 resident students in over 75 languages and dialects yearly, the DLIFLC is the premier foreign language training institution in the world.

Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center

The mission of the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center is to provide foreign language instruction in support of national security requirements; to support and evaluate Command language programs worldwide; to conduct academic research into the language learning process; and to administer a world-wide standard test and evaluation system.

When the U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command was established in 1973, DLI was placed under its control.

In 1974, the headquarters and the East Coast Branch merged with the West Coast Branch at the Presidio of Monterey. In 1976, the English Language Center was separated from the rest of DLI, and the school at Monterey became the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center, DLIFLC.

More than 145,000 students, from recruits, just out of basic training, to senior officers, have graduated from DLIFLC since 1941 in more than 30 languages.

DLIFLC provides quality foreign language training for members of the United States armed forces and other government agencies. The Institute's major goal is to ensure that graduates meet the requirements of the agencies assigning them to foreign language study. The Institute must therefore provide instructional programs that are responsive to the foreign language needs of a wide variety of Department of Defense and federal positions throughout the world.

These programs must meet high standards so that students can develop functional language skills for professional use in real-world communications situations.

DLIFLC recognizes the value of both education and training in providing language instruction.

The school follows a systems approach to instruction, with the principle of job-relevant instruction central to curriculum development, implementation, and evaluation. Instruction is student-oriented so that effective learning can take place. Languages cannot be learned well in a cultural vacuum. Language and culture are intricately intertwined. Therefore, at DLIFLC, language skills are developed to incorporate the value systems, behavior patterns, institutions, geography, and political, economic, and social systems of the areas where the target language is spoken.

Defense Language Institute

To provide the highest quality instruction, DLIFLC supports a number of programs that assist DLIFLC faculty and staff members to reach their full professional potential. The Institute also directs research into the development of computer-assisted language learning programs. DLIFLC can offer more than 40 foreign languages and dialects to about 4,000 students annually. The student body is composed of service members from each of the armed forces, a small number of employees from the FBI and various federal agencies. Assignments for DLI graduates include radio intercept operator, interpreter, interrogator, translator, embassy attachment, Foreign Area Officer, and assignments in the intelligence community.

The major language departments at the Institute are based on student levels: Arabic, Korean, Russian, Spanish and Chinese. Whether one is grinding through a year of Arabic, or taking one of the shorter six-month courses, such as Spanish, the academic regimen is rigorous. Students attend class six hours a day and complete some three hours of homework each night. A typical school day covers two weeks of normal college language curriculum. In addition to their academic responsibilities, the students also must meet their military obligations. Barracks room inspections, military formations and mandatory physical fitness training maintain military discipline and esprit de corps.

Directions to Defense Language Institute

Air Travel

Several flights arrive at the Monterey Peninsula Airport each day. Limousine and taxi service is available from the airport to the Presidio. If you arrive by air, report to the limousine service desk for transportation to DLI and NPS. Be sure to keep receipts for ground transportation to DLI and NPS for reimbursement later.

If flying into the San Francisco International Airport, visit the USO lounge in the airport. It is comfortable and has services for military travelers and their family members. The USO, open 24 hours every day, is located on the second floor of the main terminal above the United Airlines ticket counters.

Driving from the North:

Use Highway 101 South to the Monterey Peninsula exit near Prunedale (Highway 156 West). This five-mile road leads to Highway 1 South.

At the mouth of the Monterey Bay, Highway 1 South bypasses the small cities of Marina and Seaside, and also the former Fort Ord, now called the Ord Military Community (OMC).

Continue along Highway 1 South until just south of the Seaside city limits; then take the Del Monte exit. Follow Del Monte until you approach the Fisherman's Wharf intersection.

MCCVB

At this point there are two ways to climb the hill on to the installation:

Driving from the South:

Use Highway 101 to Salinas.

Follow Highway 68 signs to Monterey Peninsula/Highway 1 to the Pacific Grove City/17-Mile Drive turnoff (Highway 68). Turn right. Follow Highway 68 to Prescott Avenue. Turn right on Prescott Avenue.

At the first traffic light, turn right on Taylor Street. Within one block's distance you'll be entering the Presidio through the Taylor Street Gate. Immediately after entering through the Taylor Street Gate turn left onto Lawton Road. Follow Lawton Road until you pass Pvt. Bolio and Kit Carson Roads.

Both Taylor Hall and Rasmussen Hall are on Lawton Road. If you're arriving during the day, go to Taylor Hall (building 616), located at the corner of Lawton and Rifle Range Roads near the Franklin Street Gate. After duty hours, go to Rasmussen Hall (building 614), located at the corner of Kit Carson and Lawton roads.

DLI Military Units

229th Military Intelligence Battalion

The mission of the 229th Military Intelligence Battalion is to produce and maintain soldier-linguists to meet Army foreign language requirements worldwide. This entails support to the academic mission of the Defense Language Institute, execution of common military training, conducting Training and Doctrine (TRADOC) Command-directed soldierization, and providing operational, security, administrative, and logistical support to assigned Army service members.

More than half of all the students at DLI are assigned to the 229th Military Intelligence Battalion. On average, 1,600 soldiers are actively enrolled in a language at any given time during the year. Combined with permanent party cadre, personnel strength exceeds 1,700 soldiers in the battalion. With that, the 229th Military Intelligence Battalion is one of the largest battalions in TRADOC and the largest military intelligence battalion in the U.S. Army.

The battalion is organized into six companies. Each company is responsible for the billeting, discipline, morale and welfare of its soldiers. Companies A, B, C, D, and F provide command, control, training, administration, and supply support to Initial Entry Training (IET) soldiers. These companies are responsible for the TRADOC-mandated soldierization program for the IET Soldiers. Over 70 percent of the soldiers attending DLI are IET soldiers.

Company E provides command, control, training, administration, and supply support to assigned and attached careerist student personnel, including officers. They also coordinate with the Foreign Area Officer program coordinator to enhance foreign area officer assignments, training and administrative support.

All the units work closely with the language schools to monitor student progress and implement additional language training programs. In addition to language and military skills training, the soldiers of the 229th MI BN. participate in a wide range of intramural athletics and community service activities.

311th Training Squadron

Welcome to the 311th Training Squadron! The time spent here will be both challenging and rewarding. Duties include both academic and military responsibilities. Both are extremely important and adherence to military standards will have a significant impact upon the level of success achieved while stationed here.

The squadron headquarters is located at Building 627 on the Presidio of Monterey-home of the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center (DLIFLC). On average, nearly 1,100 airmen study a language here at any given time. Shortly after arrivals inbound, personnel will be assigned to a Military Training Flight (MTF). The function of the MTF is to provide airmanship and readiness training while supporting the language-training mission of the Institute. Upon arrival, a professional Military Training Leader (MTL) will provide assistance with in-processing the installation.

The academic regimen is rigorous. Airmen attend class six hours a day and complete some three hours of homework each night. A typical school day covers two weeks of normal college language curriculum - the equivalent of over eight years of college for a typical language course. The 311th Training Squadron works closely with the language schools to monitor student progress and implement additional language training programs. The school provides Smart Start and post language training to maximize opportunities for success.

Uniforms for 311th Training Squadron

Regardless of AFSC, all airmen are expected to bring uniforms to include service dress uniform, short sleeve combination, and battle dress uniforms (BDUs) and/or flight suits. Airmen will wear the issue garrison camouflage cap with BDUs. Airmen are not authorized to wear baseball-style caps with BDUs.

Uniform of the Day is as Follows:

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday – utility uniform (BDUs, flight suit, or civilian equivalent for OSI agents)

Thursday – any combination of blues.

If you are graduating you must be in service dress, and service dress is recommended if you are attending any graduation ceremonies.

Friday – utility uniform (BDUs, flight suit, or civilian equivalent for OSI agents)

Marine Detachment

Mission Statement

To train and support Marines, in accordance with the Marine Corps Foreign Language Program, to create proficient linguists for the support of tactical and strategic missions worldwide.

Detachment Information

The Marine Corps Detachment is the only language training detachment of its kind. Although there are other language training programs available throughout the Marine Corps, DLI is the primary. Almost all the Marine Corps' trained linguists (not natives) are DLI graduates. The Marine Detachment falls under Marine Corps Training and Education Command (TECOM).

Checking In

The Marine Detachment is prepared to receive Marines 24 hours a day.

Defense Language Institute

Marines will be assigned a room, platoon, and a language. The five platoons are distinguished by their area of language study (1st Platoon – Eastern Europe; 2nd Platoon – Asian; 3rd Platoon – Middle Eastern; 4th Platoon – Middle Eastern; 5th Platoon – European), and the language is selected by both the individual Marine's personal experience/exposure and the needs of the Marine Corps.

There are limited amounts of Marine Corps uniform items available at the local Exchange; therefore, Marines should attempt to acquire all needed uniform items prior to arrival.

Barracks are adequate and Marines typically share a room. Telephone service, cable television, and internet service (some rooms-DSL) are available in the individual barracks rooms.

The average wait for Marines starting training is approximately 3-4 weeks. Permissive temporary assignment of duty (PTAD) for recruiter's assistance may be authorized on a case by case basis.

Academics

The four primary target languages taught to Marines are Korean, Arabic, Russian, and Spanish. However, Marines attend other languages as well.

Naval Detachment: Center for Cryptology Detachment, Monterey (CCD)

Vision

To provide support, training, and guidance by applying the "Total Sailor Concept" to meet fleet and national objectives.

BQ/Housing Where Will I Live?

This is a common question plaguing students before transfer to CCD Monterey. There currently is no berthing for geographical bachelors.

Wiring for cable television is available in all rooms, and telephone service is available in the rooms. Installation and fees are the resident's responsibility.

All single CTI "A" school students will initially reside in barracks.

Single students and staff (E-5 and above) have the option of receiving basic allowance for housing (BAH) and reside off base or to live in a single room. A current listing of rental rates for this area can be found via the Monterey County Rental List.

Single enlisted staff (E-4 and below) usually share two-person rooms with another staff member of the same pay grade.

Single officers (students and staff) have the choice of receiving BAH and reside off base or reside in the DLI Bachelor Officer Quarters (BOQ) (depending on availability).

Single officers desiring to stay in the BOQ should call the Reservations Office in advance to check for room availability. BOQ rooms are extremely limited so expect to live off base.

All students and staff desiring temporary lodging should call 60 days in advance to make a reservation.

Ten days TLA (Temporary Lodging Allowance) is authorized.

The Naval Postgraduate School

The Naval Postgraduate School

History

The idea for a graduate education program for naval officers first emerged in the late 19th century, but initially the concept found few advocates. With Marconi's invention of the "wireless" in 1901, the Wright brothers' flight in 1903, and the global trek of the steam-powered White Fleet from 1907 to 1909, belief that advanced education for U.S. naval officers could be intrinsically valuable to the Navy gained support.

On June 9, 1909, less than four months after the completion of the record-setting world cruise of the Great White Fleet, Secretary of the Navy George von L. Meyer signed General Order No. 27, establishing a school of marine engineering at Annapolis.

This small program, consisting of ten officer students and two Navy instructors, would later become today's Naval Postgraduate School. The Navy secretary's order placed the fledgling school under the direction of the Naval Academy superintendent, who was charged with "securing ample use of the educational plant of the Naval Academy to students and instructors of the school without interfering with the instruction of midshipmen." This translated into two attic rooms being set aside for classroom and laboratory space for the school.

Within three years, Meyer agreed to a proposal to change the school. On Oct 31, 1912, he signed Navy General Order No. 233, which renamed the school the Postgraduate Department of the Naval Academy. The order established courses of study in ordnance and gunnery, electrical engineering, radiotelegraphy, naval construction, and civil engineering as well as continuing the original program in marine engineering. With the additional curricula, enrollment increased to 25. Officers who attended the school finished their academic programs at civilian institutions such as Yale, Harvard, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Johns Hopkins and Columbia universities.

During World War II, Fleet Admiral Ernest King, chief of naval operations and commander-in-chief of both the Atlantic and Pacific fleets, established a commission to review the role of graduate education in the Navy. The recommendations from this group, the Pye Commission, were regarded highly within the Navy and Congress. In 1945, Congress passed legislation to make the school a fully accredited, degree-granting graduate institution. Two years later, Congress adopted legislation authorizing the purchase of an independent campus for the school.

A post-war review team, which had examined 25 sites nationwide, had recommended the old Hotel Del Monte as a new home for the Postgraduate School. The Navy had come to Monterey during World War II, leasing the Hotel Del Monte in early 1943 for a preflight training school, and subsequently using the facility for other training programs.

Negotiations with the Del Monte Properties Company led to the purchase of the hotel and 627 acres of surrounding land for $2.13 million.

In December 1951, in a move virtually unparalleled in the history of academe, the Postgraduate School moved lock, stock and wind tunnel across the nation, establishing its current campus in Monterey. The coast-to-coast move involved 500 students, about 100 faculty and staff and thousands of pounds of books and research equipment. Rear Adm. Ernest Edward Herrmann supervised the move that pumped new vitality into the Navy's efforts to advance naval science and technology.

Since that time, the student population at the Postgraduate School has grown to 1,600, with students coming from all service branches of the U.S.

defense community, as well as from the Coast Guard, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, and the services of more than 60 allied nations. Today, the school provides more than 40 programs of study, ranging from the traditional engineering and physical sciences to the rapidly evolving space science programs.

In-Processing

Your First Week at the Naval Postgraduate School

Congratulations on receiving orders to the Naval Postgraduate School in beautiful Monterey, California!

Your first week at NPS will be very busy. We recommend you arrive one week before the beginning of your classes to complete the check-in process. Please schedule your arrival during Student Services' normal working hours (Monday-Thursday 8 a.m. - 4 p.m., and Friday from 8 a.m. - 2 p.m.) and be sure to make us your first stop.

We are located in the basement of historic Herrmann Hall. If you arrive on the weekend, or after Student Services' normal working hours, you will check in with the quarterdeck. The quarterdeck is located on the main floor of Herrmann Hall. You will need to get your orders stamped (this will stop your leave).

While in Student Services, you will complete your check in to the PYTHON system and check-in your medical and dental records.

Upon completion of the Student Services check-in process-this takes approximately 15-20 minutes-you will receive a check-in sheet to be completed before instruction begins. If you check in for the winter quarter (beginning in January) or the summer quarter (beginning in July), your instruction begins the day after the New Student/Faculty/Staff orientation; otherwise you will begin instruction the following Monday.

Orientation

New student/faculty/staff orientation is held on the Tuesday before classes begin in NPS's King Hall Auditorium. The new student orientation will take the entire day and begins at 9 a.m.

During the orientation, there is an extended lunch break so you may bring your family to the afternoon briefing and follow-on events. The Superintendent typically hosts a reception that begins at 4:00 p.m. until 5:30 p.m.

In addition to the school-wide orientation, your graduate school will conduct their own student orientation. Dates and times for graduate school orientations vary among schools.

During the rest of the week, depending on how soon you check in before classes start, you will be moving into housing, completing the student check-in sheet, purchasing books for your first classes and shopping for the proper dress attire – students wear business casual clothes daily (except Tuesday, which is military uniform day).

With all of these events scheduled during your first week, please plan accordingly so you have a smooth transition to the NPS lifestyle.

Student Services

NPS Student Services is a student-centered team of professionals committed to empowering students to achieve their educational and personal goals. The Department of Student Services (DOSS) office provides administrative and military support services to students during their course of study at the Naval Postgraduate School.

Dress/Attire Regulations

The school dress code is in effect at NPS between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday (except holidays) or at any other time when meeting with and greeting visiting personnel in an official capacity. The academic quad, the library and the Presidio of Monterey Army Health Clinic and Naval Medical Administration Unit (NMAU) constitute locations where this dress code is in effect. Personnel in an off-duty status going to and from the Navy Exchange, U.S. Post Office, and other facilities located on the grounds are not required to conform to the school attire dress code described in this instruction, but will always present a neat, orderly appearance. Military uniform regulations for grooming shall be met at all times.

Civilian Clothing

Appropriate civilian business casual attire is authorized for students while attending NPS. The school dress code described below will be in effect at NPS between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday (except holidays) Students shall ensure that their dress and personal appearance are appropriate for the occasion and will bring credit to themselves and the military services.

Students are expected to dress and conduct themselves in a manner appropriate to a business environment at all times while on campus. Business casual does not have a requirement for a coat or tie. However, it includes a dress quality collared shirt or turtleneck and dress slacks for men and either a dress or dress blouse, dress slacks/skirt for women. Shirt and shoes should be of similar style and quality. Socks are required. Pressed khakis and turtlenecks are acceptable but do not include collarless shirts and flight deck jerseys. Logos on the collar or extreme logos elsewhere on the garment are not permitted. The uniform equivalent to “business casual” consists of Service Khaki for Navy and the open-collared equivalent uniform for other services.

Naval Postgraduate School

Campus Safety

The NPS Safety Office, located in Bldg. 436, (831) 656-2822, is responsible for overseeing safety conditions at NPS and its satellite areas. Students should, when feasible, attempt to resolve unsafe or unhealthy conditions personally and on the spot. The Safety Office supervisor is responsible for resolving difficult, persistent or pervasive safety problems.

Traffic safety problems should be brought to the attention of NPS Security for referral to the Traffic Safety Council.

Any mishaps involving military personnel occurring on or off duty shall be reported to the Quarterdeck (831) 656-2441/2442.

Student Lockers

Student lockers are available in limited quantities and are assigned by program offices. Lockers are for storing unclassified materials only (books, notebooks, etc.) and should not be used for storage of classified material.

Student Parking

Traffic regulations are strictly enforced on NPS. A high occupancy vehicle (HOV) lot located behind the mechanical engineering auditorium. Lot “D” behind the west wing of Herrmann Hall and the combined bachelor quarters (CBQ) residents’ parking spaces are the only restricted parking spaces on campus. Students may park in any other green or brown marked spots. Students parking outside the school grounds are reminded not to block local residents driveways and should be aware of posted local parking regulations.

To obtain on-base vehicle decals, applicants must provide liability insurance information card, vehicle registration, driver’s license, license plate numbers, current military/DoD civilian employee ID card, and current DoD vehicle decal number (if any). Student car-pooling is strongly encouraged due to limited parking spaces on base.

Command Sponsor Program

An effective, well-administered Command Sponsor Program benefits all personnel by reducing apprehensions normally associated with any permanent change of station (PCS) move. Current students will serve as a sponsor to U.S. military students at least twice during their tour at NPS. Student Services sends a welcome aboard message to new USN students. Sponsors assigned to U.S. Army (USA), U.S. Air Force (USAF), U.S. Marine Corps (USMC), and U.S. Coast Guard (USCG) students will send a welcome aboard email to incoming students from these service branches. Everything a new student will need is on the web—hardcopy packages are no longer produced. Sponsoring incoming students is one of the few additional military duties required of all U.S. military students at NPS.

Sponsoring International Students

An international sponsor is an ambassador of goodwill. Entering a new and different culture is seldom easy and the sponsor program is designed to help an international NPS student adjust to American life. The sponsor in turn benefits from this unique opportunity to meet and become acquainted with a foreign military officer and his or her family (current students will serve as a sponsor to international military students at least once during their tour at NPS).

Fleet and Family Support Center (FFSC)

FFSC is dedicated to providing personal assistance and support to all military personnel and military family members of NPS and its tenant commands. The FFSC is located at 1280 Leahy Rd, La Mesa Village (831) 656-3060/3141. The FFSC helps single service members and families with the following programs: information and referral, relocation assistance, transition assistance (for those separating or retiring from the military), spouse employment assistance, counseling (individual, family and marital), and family advocacy.

Child Development Center (CDC)

NPS' Child Development Center is a division of the Morale, Welfare and Recreation (MWR) Department and is accredited by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC). The CDC is located in the La Mesa housing area next to La Mesa Elementary School (directly across from the Housing Welcome Center). The program offers affordable, quality early childhood programs in a child-oriented, family supportive environment for military and DoD family members ages 6 weeks through 5 years. The hours of operation are 7:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Fees are on a sliding scale and based on total family income.

Registrar

Upon arriving at NPS, students arriving with orders in hand must check in at the registrar's office. As the registrar maintains the school's official academic records, students are obliged to respond to that office on all matters pertaining to courses and grades, and students are responsible for meeting all deadlines for adds, withdrawals, incompletes, thesis submissions, etc.

A student's academic record is his/her own responsibility, and it must not be assumed that professors, program officers or others are taking care of these matters. The registrar's staff welcomes conscientious attention to these important details through visits to their office.

Textbooks

Purchases

Textbooks can be purchased at the Navy Exchange (NEX) Bookstore located in building 303 inside the NEX. International officers obtain required textbooks by filling out an NPS Educational Material Charge Slip. These forms are available in each curricular office and Student Services. A Student Services Officer, and only a student services officer, must sign these forms.

Allowance

Most U.S. military students are entitled to some type of allowance to help offset textbook costs. USN students receive an allowance per academic quarter. This usually takes six weeks to process. USN students must have a valid/current Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT) form on file with Disbursing. USA, USAF, USCG and USMC officers are reimbursed through their respective services.

Textbook Refunds

Bookstore refunds for textbooks will be granted in full only when all of the following conditions are met:

- A cash register receipt is presented.
- New textbooks are to be returned within 14 days of purchase or by the 10th day of the new quarter, whichever is later.
- Originally purchased as new.
- No marks of any kind. Books with markings will be refunded at the "used textbook" price, and only at scheduled buy-back times.

Naval Postgraduate School

Used Textbooks

The bookstore (or a used book dealer) will conduct three buy-backs each quarter, one during the first week of classes and the other two during the last finals week. The location for all textbook buy-backs will be the bookstore. Dates and times will be posted on the Intranet. The bookstore will generally buy back books that are in good condition providing instructors in the following quarter will use them. The used book dealer will buy back most current edition textbooks.

Library Services

The NPS Dudley Knox Library supports the academic and research requirements of the faculty, student body, and staff through the provision of books, journal literature, and research reports literature (classified and unclassified) in both hard copy and microfilm. A pre-calculus and calculus video refresher is also available. Services offered include direct reference assistance and computerized on-line searching. A telephone paging service is available during all hours that the library is open.

Personnel Support Detachment (PSD) Monterey

PSD Monterey is located at the Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC) on Ord

military community. PSD Monterey's mission is to provide administrative, personnel, pay, and transportation support. In addition to servicing active duty and DoD civilian personnel, PSD Monterey serves the local retiree population.

PSD Monterey is dedicated to providing quality services to its customers including active, reserve and retired personnel. Contact PSD Monterey through email or the customer service phone number (831) 656-4073. Services include but not limited to:

- DEERS/RAPIDS support
- Family and member Identification Cards
- Transportation services
- Pay/personnel and advancement Services

Leave Policy

Regular leave will be granted to students during designated vacation periods, i.e. Christmas and summer break. Regular leave may be granted during the academic year on a not-to-interfere basis with assigned studies.

Student Services Officers will approve and forward student leave requests by fax to the personnel management agencies of all student's services.

NPS' Command Duty Officer (CDO) may grant leave for cases arising outside of normal working hours (i.e., weekend or 4:30 p.m.-7:30 a.m. PST). Emergency leave will be granted depending upon the merits of each individual case.

Superintendent's Electronic Suggestion Box

NPS' electronic suggestions box is available to all students to provide immediate suggestions to the superintendent and NPS' executive board. Your suggestion is very important! Please answer each question fully and provide us as much detail as possible. The suggestion box can only be used while on base, within NPS' firewall.

Superintendent Student Council (SSC)

The purpose of the Superintendent Student Council (SSC) is to facilitate effective communication and understanding among student officers assigned to NPS and the NPS administration. Its function is to bring forth new ideas and to provide feedback and recommendations to improve the quality of NPS student life. The president of the SSC interfaces with the superintendent directly and on occasion through the dean of students, the provost, and other senior faculty and staff officers. The committee is composed of volunteer representatives from each curriculum and meets monthly.

Student Spouse Club

The Officer Student Spouse Club (OSSC) is an organization for the spouses of students attending NPS. The club holds a business meeting and a social function each month. Spouses of new students can expect an invitation to participate within the first several weeks of reporting. The club also offers a wide variety of activities.

Charity Drives

Students will have an opportunity to participate in scheduled DoD-recognized charity campaigns. The DoD-wide efforts in which NPS participates are the Combined Federal Campaign, Navy and Marine Corps Relief Society Fund Drive and the Navy Blood Donor program. All students are strongly encouraged to participate in these drives or the corresponding programs of their respective services. A designated NPS officer for each drive will coordinate these charitable efforts through student services and the section leaders.

La Mesa Ride-Share Program

NPS and La Mesa Residence Association (LMRA) have instituted a "Ride Share Program" between NPS and the La Mesa housing area. It is designed to encourage carpooling because parking is limited at NPS.

LMRA area reps helped identify five La Mesa locations to put up signs (Ride Share to NPS). Three locations have also been chosen at NPS (Ride Share to La Mesa).

Navy Lodge

Located in the La Mesa Village with 72 air conditioned units and private baths. Fully equipped kitchenette (dishes, pots, pans, etc.), microwave, dining table, cable TV (HBO), VCRs, free daily in-room coffee, free local telephone calls, direct dial AT&T service, free daily newspaper, hairdryer, radio/clock, snack vending, ice machines, on-site laundry facilities, playground and picnic grounds.
